Raging Stallion To The Last Man

To the last man is a Cowboy romance of the finest. The photography is fascinatingly clear, the conscious decision against a studio grants an irresistible charm, which has never been seen in adult photography before. The viewer feels as if he is sitting with these Cowboys at the campfire, the idyll is electrifying. The men, burly, rough and heavy hung, exhibit a yearning and the need for tenderness.

This photo book is the results of a two-week photo shoot for a porn flick with the same title—an erotic western elaborate and ambitious as hardly any adult production has been before. It was shot in the remoteness of the Arizona Mountains; the models were flown in from many different countries.

The US-American company Raging Stallion Studios was founded in 1990 in San Francisco by Chris Ward and J. D. Slater. Meanwhile it has also become extremely successful all over Europe. Photographer Kent Taylor, which was there from the start, has shaped the visual aesthetic of the company with his photography; his colleague Geof Teague (part of the team for six years now), adds to the style thru his experience in the fashion world.
