Bathed in light

Light, color and the perfection of the male body — Mark Henderson doesn't need more to create images of an unmistakable style, which are incredibly popular with the audience. Luminosity is already the fourth photo book by the American artist. And he sticks to his formula for success: masterfully reworked images of men who can easily make your mouth water. And of course we're perfectly fine with that. After all this collection offers everything we love Henderson for.

» Of the several contemporary photographers whose focus is the nude male and whose individual work I admire, it's Mark Henderson who has broken out of the pack and established himself as a Jim French for the New Millennium.« — Fred Bissonnes

About the artist:

Mark Henderson lives and works in the United States. He studied art history and is especially interested in baroque art. The pictures for Luminosity were taken at Henderson's private residence.
